

Global Competence is the capacity and disposition to understand and act on issues of global significance.

Global Competence can be developed within any discipline, and it can cut across disciplines. The seven global competence matrices — one main matrix and six content-area matrices — help teachers and students understand Global Competence and how to apply it.

The main Global Competence matrix provides detail about the overall definition of Global Competence and how it might be demonstrated by students. The six content-area matrices supplement the main matrix with additional information and perspectives relevant to each content area and its objectives and offer teachers and students a way to look at global competence through the different content area lenses.

- For teachers, the content-area matrices outline essential skills and concepts (big ideas) that connect the discipline with an application of global competence within and beyond the classroom. Each matrix can be used to guide teachers in designing lessons and developing assessments for student work.
- For students, the content-area matrices identify specific strategies for using the subject area’s big ideas to understand the world and using the world to understand the big ideas of the subject area — for developing and applying the discipline’s big ideas in a global context.

MAIN GLOBAL COMPETENCE MATRIX

INVESTIGATE THE WORLD	RECOGNIZE PERSPECTIVES	COMMUNICATE IDEAS	TAKE ACTION
Students investigate the world beyond their immediate environment.	Students recognize their own and others' perspectives.	Students communicate their ideas effectively with diverse audiences.	Students translate their ideas and findings into appropriate actions to improve conditions.
Students: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Identify an issue, generate a question, and explain the significance of locally, regionally, or globally focused researchable questions. ■ Use a variety of languages and domestic and international sources and media to identify and weigh relevant evidence to address a globally significant researchable question. ■ Analyze, integrate, and synthesize evidence collected to construct coherent responses to globally significant researchable questions. ■ Develop an argument based on compelling evidence that considers multiple perspectives and draws defensible conclusions. 	Students: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Recognize and express their own perspective on situations, events, issues, or phenomena and identify the influences on that perspective. ■ Examine perspectives of other people, groups, or schools of thought and identify the influences on those perspectives. ■ Explain how cultural interactions influence situations, events, issues, or phenomena, including the development of knowledge. ■ Articulate how differential access to knowledge, technology, and resources affects quality of life and perspectives. 	Students: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Recognize and express how diverse audiences may perceive different meanings from the same information and how that affects communication. ■ Listen to and communicate effectively with diverse people, using appropriate verbal and nonverbal behavior, languages, and strategies. ■ Select and use appropriate technology and media to communicate with diverse audiences. ■ Reflect on how effective communication affects understanding and collaboration in an interdependent world. 	Students: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Identify and create opportunities for personal or collaborative action to address situations, events, issues, or phenomena in ways that improve conditions. ■ Assess options and plan actions based on evidence and the potential for impact, taking into account previous approaches, varied perspectives, and potential consequences. ■ Act, personally or collaboratively, in creative and ethical ways to contribute to improvement locally, regionally, or globally and assess the impact of the actions taken. ■ Reflect on their capacity to advocate for and contribute to improvement locally, regionally, or globally.
